Purpose, objectives and elements of event

The second round table organised at UDG within the ECOBIAS project had several objectives:

1. To present the national qualification framework, and the role of LLL courses within it
2. To discuss the importance of skill development within the area of aquatic monitoring and bioassessment
3. To share the experiences of the participants of the LLL course, their impressions and importance for their professional careers

- To explore the possibilities of future cooperation in the field of aquatic monitoring and bioassessment

Apart from the above, the event was an opportunity to issue the certificates to participants who have successfully completed the LLL course.

CONCLUSIONS

The round table gathered participants of the LLL course, who are representatives of relevant national institutions (Hydrometeorological institute, Public Enterprise for National Parks, universities and research bodies) specialising in aquatic monitoring and bioassessment. The event contained presentations regarding the importance of the LLL courses in professional development, as well as within the field of aquatic monitoring and bioassessment and water protection in general. There was opportunity for participants to share their experiences and evaluate the knowledge and skills gained. Their feedback was very positive. Apart from saying that this was an important contribution to the capacity building within Montenegro within this field, they stressed the fact that this course provided opportunity to network with colleagues from other institutions in Montenegro as well as the region. Ideas for future projects and collaborations were also proposed, and at UDG we are considering developing new initiatives with the institutional partners. This will contribute to the overall sustainability of the ECOBIAS project.

The event was also used as an opportunity to issue the certificates to the successful participants of the LLL course (17 in total).
